

“Valuing Skills of Beneficiaries of International Protection”

Co-funded by the European Union

Newsletter February 2016

Welcome to the first Skills2Work Newsletter. This Newsletter will be published every second month to inform project partners and stakeholders of project progress and to forecast future activities.

On 22 January 2016, a one-day preparation meeting for the Skills2Work project took place in London.

Nine IOM focal points and six Co-Beneficiary Partners met to exchange ideas on the project's activities and develop a course of action for the coming 24 months.

The meeting commenced with a presentation by Geertrui Lanneau, Regional Thematic Specialist at IOM's Regional Office in Brussels. The project partners presented their ideas and engaged in constructive brainstorm sessions.

The end result was a successful meeting which helped all partners to align their views with regards to the main elements of the project. With the next regional project meeting (in Madrid) fast approaching, project partners are now well equipped to start project activities. They will now start with the first steps towards the collection of success stories and begin outreach/network building

Studies show that long periods of unemployment for refugees – as for everybody else – often lead to permanent “unemployability” and welfare dependency. Rapid participation in the labour market is the best way forward towards full integration.

Thus, the Skills2Work project promotes the validation of formal and non-formal skills and strives for the active participation of the private sector. Current best practices will be shared and promoted to jumpstart labour market integration of refugees.

IOM is proud to lead such an important project whose objectives may be more relevant now than in the recent past.”

Martin Wyss,
Chief of Mission
IOM the Netherlands

Skills2Work

The Skills2Work project aims to promote labour market integration of beneficiaries of international protection through improving early validation of both formal and informal skills and competences.

Key outcomes from London:

- ✓ Based on the input received in London, blueprints for the
 - 1) national inventories,
 - 2) success stories,
